Zeta Tau Alpha Places First In 1960 Goat Show, Combo

by Susan Banes

• ZETA TAU ALPHA almost made a clean sweep of the Goat Show awards Friday night winning first place in the Show itself, and taking the Campus Combo trophy for the best participation by a sorority.

Second place winner of the Goat Show was Phi Sigma Sigma with "Were You There When Eloise Was Eve-n Worse?" Third place was a tie between Delta Gamma for a skit entitled "Were You With Pooh in 1492?" and Pi Beta Phi for "Mr. Clean Comes to Ivy U."

"Paul Reverse's Ride"

Zeta's skit was titled "Paul Reverse's Ride" and was an account of how Paul Reverse's ride actually took place. Red-coated Santa Claus appeared at the finale.

Judging the presentations were Connie Vaughan of the Women's Physical Education Department, Dana F. White of the English Department, and Edward G. Ferero, managing director of university dramatic activities.

Student Council Referendum

• AN AMENDMENT TO the Articles of Student Government will be submitted in the form of a referendum on December 14. The booth for voting on the amendment will be open from 10:15 am to 7 pm in front of the Student Union.

"Article Five: Meeting," as it now stands states "The Student Council shall meet regularly every week during the academic year at a time prescribed by the Council."

The proposed amendment reads, "The Student Council shall meet regularly at least once every two weeks during the academic year . . ."

Professor Lubin Poe Leggett of the Speech Department entertained the audience between skits with his renditions of college and popular songs.

While the audience awaited the Delta Gamma and Kappa Delta were awarded honorable mentions. Donald Kline, professor of art, judged the annual poster contest.

Sydney Goldman, president of Junior Panhellenic Council, introduced Dr. Robert Croft, of the Council of District Churches, who accepted the canned foods which were collected on behalf of his organization and which were required for admission to the show.

Renamed School of Government Offers New Military Programs

by Roger Stuart II

• ACTING PRESIDENT Oswald S. Colclough announced the renaming of the School of Government to the School of Government, Business and International Affairs last Friday.

The school will remain under the direction of the present dean, A. M. Woodruff, the president told the alumni of the University's Navy Comptrollership Program at the Fort Myer officers' club.

Two Associate Deans

Two associate deans, whose appointments are still pending, will be chosen to oversee the two program areas in the school—business and public administration, and international affairs, he said.

Commenting on the changed name, Dean Woodruff said, "It is really a recognition of a state of affairs which has evolved over the last 20 years" in that "it is more descriptive of what the school does."

As it is now, it is pretty hard for a man to explain why a Master of Arts degree in government is really the same thing as a Master's degree in business administration, he said.

Further, he noted, the new name will do a better job of communicating the fact that the University does have a specific school of international affairs.

The shift in name, approved by the Board of Trustees at its November meeting, will carry with it a greater independence for the faculties of both programs in handling their own problems, he said.

The present school was founded in 1892 as the School of Comparative Jurisprudence. As such it was the first one in the Washington

Moot Trial Hears 'Not Guilty' Plea

• ANN HAUG PLEADED not guilty to the charge of a second degree murder of her fiancé, Charles Mays, in the first session of the Moot Court Trial, Wednesday evening, November 30, in Stockton hall.

The charge was the result of several events. Miss Haug and Mr. Mays had been quarreling about Miss Haug's many male admirers and her refusal to forsake their attentions. The two decided to meet in the Student Union to discuss the problem further. There, after a violent argument, Miss Haug attempted suicide by pointing a pistol at herself. While trying to prevent her from succeeding, Mr. Mays was killed.

Impaneling of the jury, presentation of the prosecution's case and examining of the prosecution's first witness also took place in the November 30 session. The trial will be continued Wednesday evening, December 7, at 8:15 in Government 2. This session is open to the public.

Clerk of the Law School Trial Practice Court, John Kendrick, called the court to order at 6:15 pm. After a short period of questioning by both prosecution and defense, a jury of seven was sworn in.

James Lemert, assistant attorney for the prosecution, delivered his statement of the case. The judge questioned the correctness of the charge of second degree murder, and asked both parties to state their reasons for such an indictment. After the citing of examples of similar cases as precedent and the presenting of various definitions of second degree murder, the judge accepted the indictment.

The defense decided to postpone its opening statement until the completion of the prosecution's case.

The first witness, arresting police officer Daniel Newland, gave his account of the events immediately following the death of Mr. Mays. He identified the pistol and attested to its being the weapon that killed Mr. Mays. He also identified several sets of finger prints, testifying that one of the defendant's prints matched the prints on the trigger of the pistol.

Court was adjourned at 7:55 pm.

The Honorable Edward A. Beard, judge of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, presided at the trial. The prosecuting attorneys are Daniel Sachs and James Lemert. Steven Smet-hurst and Fred Moring are the counsels for the defense. The jurors are Harriet Ameham, Sue Bonn, Jami Broselow, Linda Conrad, Jill Diskan, Eric Fine and Sue Karp.

The purpose of the Moot Trial is to give third year law students practice in actual courtroom procedure. Judge Beard frequently interrupted the trial proceedings to comment on the presentation of the case and to discuss the various problems which arose.

Fraternity Council Still Finds Fault With Annual's Pictures

• AFTER A MONTH of peace, the Interfraternity Council discontent with the Cherry Tree policy erupted at last Tuesday's meeting in a discussion of the year-book photographer.

Sigma Nu Representative Ed Gross introduced a motion to have the IFC help the Cherry Tree find a suitable photographer for next year. He complained that the present photographer charged by appointments and not by pictures. Mr. Gross cited examples of Greeks who made appointments to have their pictures taken, were unable to keep the appointment, and were charged the $2.50 fee for that appointment, as well as for a later appointment at which a picture was taken.

A charge that the Cherry Tree did not want IFC help and would not consider IFC suggestions was leveled by Alpha Epsilon Pi Delegate Jeff Young. He pointed out that the IFC had found a photographer for the Cherry Tree who would have charged 50 cents less, would have given seven wallet size pictures in addition to the two for the yearbook, and would not have charged by appointment, but that the Cherry Tree would not accept him. In light of Mr. Young's statement, Mr. Gross withdrew his motion.

Mr. Young, IFC social chairman, then reported the annual IFC Prom would be held March 11, at the Presidential Arms. He said the Prom could be better this year because Greek Week was cancelled, and the money usually used for it could be channeled to the Prom.

Delta Tau Delta Representative George Hamilton reported the fire safety committee has begun inspections of fraternity houses. He said that the main problems were clogged nozzles on fire extinguishers and refuse in furnace rooms. Mr. Hamilton said inspections would continue until all houses were considered safe.

Judges To Pick Ideal Pledge In PSK Contest December 9

THE FIFTH ANNUAL Phi Sigma Kappa "Miss Model Pledge" contest will be held this Friday, December 9, in the Senate caucus rooms of the Senate Office building on Capitol Hill.

Three pledges from each sorority have been chosen to compete as the "ideal sorority pledge." Judging will be based on attractiveness, personality, poise, conversational ability and activities in high school and community.

The three judges who will select the model pledge are: Nancy H. Steorts, the youth activities director of Woodward and Lothrop; Robert Miller, administrative assistant to Congressman Thompson (D-Texas); and Dr. Richard W. Stephens of the sociology department.

The candidates will be escorted by the Phi Sigma Kappa pledge class and active members.

The three girls representing each sorority and the sororities are as follows: Linda Connard, Helen Griggs and Terri Shelton, Alpha Delta Pi; Daphne Dutton, Mary Anna Sinkule and Isabel Thomasson, Chi Omega; Karen Dixon, Dina Dubois and Rita Marinho, Delta Gamma; Linda Abrams, Sandra Kitt and Merle Rudefer, Alpha Epsilon Phi.

Other contestants include Karen Anne Von Thyrring Kraft, Jeanette Martin and Pamela Jean Peter, Delta Zeta; Hannah Jopling, Ann Nelson and Bea Sandahl, Kappa Alpha Theta; Nancy Howar, Mary Louise Prista and Peggy Whalen, Kappa Delta.

Also, Susan Bromfield, Mary-

rita Fortuna and Phyllis Parziale, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Leona H. Baker, Barbara Rebhun and Sue Rifkin, Phi Sigma Sigma; Bitty McCarthy, Pat Poindexter and Liz Westcott, Pi Beta Phi; Merrily Clift, Jill Stormer and Sabrina Von Zahn, Sigma Kappa; Christy Chambers, Sandra Swain and Mimi Weschler, Zeta Tau Alpha.

AKPsi Initiates

ALPHA KAPPA PSI, the professional fraternity of commerce and business, initiated nine members last Sunday. The new initiates are: Charles Brun, John Gardes, Phillip Gross, Leslie Hubbard, Ronald Kalts, Ross McFadyen, Robert Migull, Harry Olmstead and Diego Uribe. Jack White and Jeff Green will be initiated at a later date.

Following the initiation the members attended a banquet at the Derby room.

Remsberg, Filippo Cite Cures For Student Book Exchange

• SUSAN FILIPPO and Stanley Remsberg were appointed co-chairmen for next semester's book exchange at the Student Council meeting last week.

Both co-chairmen worked on the exchange last semester.

Mr. Remsberg cited need for a running set of accounts and vouchers which would facilitate a quick check on the daily progress of the exchange. Although he felt the room allotted in the Student Union annex was adequate, more book cases and an organized departmental system of arranging the books would speed sales.

Schedule Set Up

Miss Filippo gave a tentative schedule for operation of the exchange next semester. It will start three days before registration, building up an inventory the first week, and then operate two weeks past the end of registration until February 18. Her plans called for keeping the exchange open 11 am to 8 pm three days a week and from 10 am to 8 pm on the other two. She emphasized need for getting all preliminary work on the exchange done during Christmas vacation.

Under Council questioning Miss Filippo said that "The book exchange has given students better service than the bookstore because it has taken over in the sphere of selling students' used

HAVE ALWAYS HAD AN abiding hatred for the bottom crust of rye bread. There is no particular reason for making this point, except that whenever I think of Fort Lauderdale, I think of rye bread. There is no particular reason for that either, but I have been thinking of Fort Lauderdale. Fort Lauderdale is "where the boys are." Right now, that is. Most of the time, serenity reigns in Fort Lauderdale. (The Chamber of Commerce will hate me; they say it never rains in Fort Lauderdale.) But, for two weeks, twenty thousand collegians descend on this peaceful community and take it apart, piece by piece. They call it Spring Vacation, but it's more like amateur night at Cape Canaveral. They capture Florida and throw the Keys away. But I shouldn't joke—not while people are holding mass prayer meetings for an early hurricane season.

This is "where the boys are." And girls, too. Such girls, it makes you dizzy to look at them. If you look long enough, you reach an advanced stage of dizziness called aphrodisiac. It's like being in love. That's what happened to me, and it will happen to you, too. Everywhere you turn—beaches full of them, motels and hotels full of them, cars full of them, pools full of them, bathing suits full of them. Ah, bathing suits... when the man said, "It's the little things in life that count," he must have been thinking of bathing suits. But mostly, it's the girls.

Girls in love, girls in trouble, bright girls with a future, not-so-bright girls with a past, rich girls in the lap of luxury, poor girls in any lap that'll have them, girls of every size and discretion. It isn't any wonder that this is "where the boys are." And the things that happen are wacky and wild and wicked and warmly wonderful "where the boys are." Someone should make a movie about it. Hey, someone did! M-G-M calls it "Where The Boys Are," starring Dolores Hart, George Hamilton, Yvette Mimieux, Jim Hutton, Barbara Nichols, Paula Prentiss, with Frank Gorshin and introducing popular recording star Connie Francis in her first screen role. You'll want to see all the things that happen "Where The Boys Are."

books that the bookstore doesn't have enough man hours to handle properly during registration."

Both chairmen acknowledged the importance of working for more cooperation with the bookstore, trying to obtain a price list, getting more students to man the counter, keeping the 25 cent service charge per book, looking into the possibility of attaching notifications with registration forms and using the Student Council as an advisory and liaison body.

In other action the Council accepted the Cherry Tree contract. Advocate Charlie Mays set December 14 for the referendum on the amendment to the Articles of Student Government and President Dave Aaronson appointed Roger Stuart and Bob Aleshire to a committee to get referees for the election booth.

Mr. Aaronson also appointed Mr. Aleshire presidential assistant for intra-University organizations. He will act as coordinator between dormitories, service clubs and other University organizations.

LeBlanc Talks Campus Politics

• DR. HUGH LeBLANC, of the political science department, attempted to point out the difficulty of having a true political party on a college campus in a talk before the Student for Better Government last Friday.

"A political party," he said, "functions as a broker between the people and the government to organize the electorate behind candidates. If successful, it organizes the government and creates an image for itself." He pointed out that the most significant thing about a political party is its permanent organization.

Switching to the campus situation, he indicated that the difficulty in maintaining a permanent organization with the high campus turnover makes a political party a difficult reality. "To be anything more than a campaign organization," Dr. LeBlanc maintained, "a political party must develop issues that will cleave the student population. These must be permanent issues rather than issues manufactured just for a campaign."

Discussion from the floor after the talk brought out the suggestion that students should work with the administration to seek more autonomy and control over student activities. Also that the political parties, the student council and the newspaper should function to a greater extent as forums for constructive student suggestions and criticism of University policy and practice. Dr. LeBlanc sparked further discussion by indicating that the approach to these problems may furnish the issues that will cleave student opinion and make the functioning of political parties possible.

Professor LeBlanc suggested that perhaps the Hatchet could run a column battle sheet for parties and views on campus affairs.

Editorial

Ethics In Doubt

• ONE CAN CERTAINLY sympathize with the Interfraternity Council in its dispute with the Cherry Tree. The school annual seems to have taken the less advantageous picture deal as far as both the IFC and the seniors are concerned.

The deal the Cherry Tree signed costs seniors and Greeks $2.50 for an appointment for the photographer. The deal the Cherry Tree turned down would have cost $2.00 for the actual photographic work and would have given each person seven finished photos in addition to the two the Cherry Tree requires for its purposes.

According to Mr. Blocher, the business manager of the Cherry Tree, the reason that the less expensive photographer was not used was that he did not meet the technical requirements of the Cherry Tree concerning picture size and date of delivery.

The editors of the HATCHET found, after investigation, that Mr. Blocher only talked to subordinates on the phone, and never met or talked with the head of the firm. This photographer further states that he is able to meet the technical requirements that were reported to him, and that he could have had the photographs returned in the first week of January. This is the date that the present photographer will have his films back according to Mr. Blocher.

The photographer that was turned down has done 18 school yearbooks and has just completed a year book for one of the service installations that had to meet government specifications.

It is very difficult to understand why the heads of the Cherry Tree picked the photography deal that they did, but from all appearances they certainly did not give prime consideration to the people who form the strongest support of the Cherry Tree—the students.

It would be fine if the editor-in-chief and the business manager of the Cherry Tree could make a substantial profit through good business practices as their predecessors have, but we certainly hope that if it becomes a question of profits for the editors versus the welfare of the students that the welfare of the students will take precedence. After all, the students are the ones that foot the bill for the Cherry Tree.

If the business manager is merely incompetent to judge between a good and bad deal, we hope that he will be replaced.

Carter-Harper Team Proves Women Are Great Talkers

• EVERY ONE KNOWS women are great talkers but what male wants to admit they say anything? Sue Carter and Mollie Ann Harper have smilingly persuaded the skeptics to reconsider the subject.

Miss Carter and Miss Harper have just topped their debate careers with the highest combined speakers ratings in a Howard University varsity debate tournament. Miss Carter was also honored as best affirmative speaker in the contest.

The two girls won with an impressive stock of data and information which their opponents were not able to beat, persuading them that the female brain contains a little more than fluff.

Miss Carter had previously prepared herself for this battle of words while attending high school in Manassas, Virginia, but Miss Harper did not debate before she came to the University.

Miss Carter and Miss Harper have entered their second year of debating under the guidance of Professors George F. Henigan, Edwin L. Stevens, and T. H. Krebs. Their November 4 showing at Howard brought the two debaters to the attention of the public. A friend has said that Miss Carter and Miss Harper now "live in a fishbowl."

Miss Carter said that they are both surprised by the whole thing and added skeptically that the win was just a "flash in the pan. Everybody deserves one moment of glory."

There appears to be more moments of glory ahead for the two debaters. Few people are working as hard for their courses as these girls for their debate subjects. The girls, both juniors, are taking 15 hours. Miss Carter's major is English literature and Miss Harper, who would like to work in the State Department, is a public affairs major. "Actually," they said, "law would be the most suitable career to go into after all this debating, but neither of us has that much ambition."

Both girls live at home, Miss Harper here in Washington and Miss Carter in Manassas, Virginia. Miss Harper is the youngest of a family of four. Miss Carter has a younger brother.

The two girls seem to do all right against the vocal strength and larger bulk of their opponents. They have been trained by their coaches not to answer with sarcasm or shouting. Miss Harper and Miss Carter have certainly stuck to that advice and have become winners.

"When the boys start straining their vocal chords, we just smile at them. That has a far more startling effect than if we answered in a boisterous way," said Miss Carter.

Debaters Journey To Dixie Tournney

• AIMING TO INCREASE its string of two straight varsity tournament wins, affirmative debaters Molly Harper and Sue Carter, aided by Linda Stone and Margaret Neff on the negative, journey to the annual Dixie Classic tournament at Wake Forest on Saturday.

This tournament invites only the top debating schools in the nation. The University won the Classic last year, but competition appears to be keener this year with many of the debating powers of the Mid-west making the trip.

University novice debaters returned from the annual Temple University novice tournament in Philadelphia last week with a record of four wins and four losses. The affirmative team of Carolyn Sundberg and Stephanie Patchen defeated Hunter College and Misericordia, while losing to Morgan State and St. Peters College.

Arguing on the negative, Jim Latchem and Virginia Hetrick defeated host Temple and Rutgers, but were overpowered by Maryland and West Point.

Assistant debate coach Henry Krebs said that there were no undefeated schools, although several teams were undefeated on one side of the question. He reported that none of the 67 schools participating in the tournament were able to dominate it.

Toy Drive, Decorating, Chorus Highlight Christmas Activities

by John Day

• AT A TIME when most students are griping about a shorter vacation and starting to buy presents for folks at home, two industrious University students are making plans for the creation of an extensive Holiday season here.

Arlene Kevorkian and Jack Curry are the co-chairmen of Holiday Season this year.

Under their direction Holiday Season will consist of five main events: a poster contest, a tree lighting ceremony and the Messiah Chorus, an orphan's toy drive, a window decorating contest and the University orphan's party.

The annual orphan's party is probably one of the most inspiring events held at the University. Every campus organization is requested to send two representatives to the party which will be held on the second floor of the Student Union, Tuesday, December 20, at 2 pm.

A toy drive is being held to collect presents for the orphans. The drive will be conducted in the form of a contest to be judged on the basis of the number of toys donated. Toys must be new and have a minimum value of 25 cents. Bonus points will be awarded for having wrapped the gifts. Wrapped gifts should be labeled as to contents and approximate value. The gifts should be brought to the HATCHET office not later than 5 pm, Sunday, December 18.

The Messiah Chorus and the tree lighting ceremony will be held in Lisner auditorium December 12, at 8 pm. Dean John Latimer will light the tree donated by the Engineering School. Dr. Joseph Sizoo will read from the scriptures. These two events are the traditional highpoints of the Holiday Season.

This year a new incentive has been added to create interest, the Holiday Season awards. A first, second and third place certificate will be given in the fraternity, sorority and independent divisions

'The Pill Box'

By Arthur Herrmann and Jay Morton

Upon completion of Pharmacy School, graduates may not obtain their license to practice until they have met certain requirements prescribed by their respective state boards of Pharmacy. The graduate must work approximately two thousand hours under the supervision of a registered pharmacist in order to satisfy this internship requirement.

While gaining experience in the compounding and dispensing of prescriptions, he learns how to cope with and solve the various problems which normally arise in the course of his work. Becoming acquainted with the physicians in the surrounding area, he is better able to serve the patient needs.

Coming into close contact with people further his ability to meet the needs of the public. In addition to this experience, he learns the principles which are essential for the efficient operation of a pharmacy.

After complying with the time requirement, the graduate must pass a theoretical and practical state board examination. These stringent requirements are set up, as in other health professions, in order to assure the public of the best service possible.

The results of the Pharmacy School elections this year are as follows:

American Pharmaceutical Association
President Arthur Herrmann, Vice President Dean Allen, Recording Secretary Jean Pichler, Corr. Secretary Paul Bergeron, Treasurer Matt Nevins.

President Paul Bergeron, Vice President William Fearer, Secretary Rosemary Franz, Treasurer Arthur Herrmann.

Junior Class
President Dean Allen, Vice President Alvin Ezrin, Treasurer Phillip Legg.

Sophomore Class
President John Freeman, Vice President Barbara Baker, Secretary Hannah Klein, Alpha Zeta Omega Pharmaceutical Fraternity

President Jay Morton, Vice President Joel Davis.

Kappa Psi Pharmaceutical Fraternity
Regent Haynes McDaniel, Vice Regent Edgar Collins, Secretary Phillip Legg, Treasurer Richard Miller, Chaplain James Eblin, Historian Ryland Packett.

Pharmacy Council

for participation in the Holiday Season program. The contest will be open to all recognized University organizations. Points for winning are based on the poster contest, the window decorating contest, the toy drive and fulfilling the required number of two representatives of each organization at the orphan's party.

The posters should express a theme of well wishes and list of events for the Holiday Season. They are due in the Student Activities office by 2 pm, Thursday, December 8, for distribution around the University.

The purpose of the window decorating contest is to give the University a festive holiday appearance. Windows will be judged on the basis of beauty, originality and adaptness to the spirit of the Holiday Season.

Letter To The Editor

To the Editors:

As promised in the recent special election, I, through the assistance of the Students for Better Government, have circulated a petition to bring before the student body in a referendum the following proposal:

"To amend Article VII, Section B of the Articles of Student Government to read: 'Eight absences from Student Council meetings, which shall include all summer meetings, without the presence of a substitute, automatically places a member before the Student Life Committee for consideration of expulsion.'"

The provision in Section B, as it is now worded, does not recognize the existence (not to mention the importance) of summer meetings, allows five absences without a proxy, makes a violator only "subject" for censure or expulsion, and forces the members of the council to sit in judgment of their own colleagues. The amendment which we propose would lend significance to summer meetings (which really lay the groundwork for the whole year's activities), would make "consideration" of each case automatic, and would take the task of self and sometimes subjective judgment from Council members into the hands of a separate, impartial body of students and faculty members. This would remove no substantial power from the Council itself, since the advocate of the Student Council would still be responsible for pleading the case, and the accused student would of course be allowed every chance to present his side.

We have achieved the required 150 signatures on the petition, and therefore take this opportunity to announce that on Wednesday, December 14, this question, along with another proposed amendment, will be referred to the student body for a vote.

School Of Government

supervision program involving the School of Government's business administration faculty and the Industrial College of the Armed Forces at Fort McNair.

Both of these new programs, the Dean noted, fit nicely into the school's new and more descriptive name. They also fit into the University's redevelopment and expansion plans.

In both of these programs, the School of Government faculty offers 24 hours of course work, six hours of thesis, which is supervised jointly by the military and civilian educators, and nine hours of course credit.

Mingling Effect
"These two new programs are a mingling of military and civilian education," Dean Woodruff said. "They are something new and experimental. If they perpetuate themselves as we hope they will, the School of Government, Business and International Affairs will be established as a pioneer in an important area of education."

The average rank of students enrolled in the programs is colonel. There are some lieutenant colonels, a few majors and one brigadier general. Their average age is in the mid-40s. Since many of them will retire at the early age of 40 or 50, Dean Woodruff said, this training will make it easier for them to start civilian careers, especially in the teaching field.

After officers have completed both the civilian and military training requirements, they receive a certificate from the military college and a Master's degree from the University.

The actual functioning of the two programs is the culmination negotiations which were started in 1952 between Cloyd H. Marvin, who was then president of the University, and General Trudeau, who was commander of the War College at Carlisle.

The School of Government now has two full-time staff members at Carlisle and sends three professors from the campus up there once a week—two on Monday and one on Friday. Three professors in the business administration program go back and forth from the University to the Fort McNair school.

School Enrollment

At present, 184 officers are enrolled at the Carlisle school and are taking University instruction. Seventy-six alumni of Carlisle are receiving the same course work and supervision. At the Fort McNair school, 80 officers are receiving University training. All men in both of these schools are candidates for Master's degrees.

In the University proper, 500 students are enrolled in the business and public administration curriculum—175 in public and 325 in business administration.

In the University proper, there are 20 students in the international affairs program.

• WHEN AUNTIE FIRST came to G.W., she saw her first Goat Show. It's been a long time since that date, and many Goat Shows have passed through her occipital lobes, but this was the finest in all her busy-bodying years. Auntie was a little disappointed. From one old goat to the others, why don't some of the fraternity beasts get together and throw a similar fiasco, all in fun of course. Each year she waits for the blessed event to occur, but alas, nothing from the arena but cold lights and empty beer kegs.

After ogling the "goats" at the Show, the Sigma Nuts found their way back to their house to celebrate. Crying in their suds and singing bawdy ballads were brothers and dates: Jack and Bunny Lynn, Spero and Kelly, Floyd and Ann, John and Sharon. Holding hands in the corner were Dale Huddleson and SK Sue Handy, and Reedo and KD Cris Guran.

Meanwhile back at the bar sat Dave Rogers with two lovelies nestled like sugarplums. All this sent Dave's head dancing.

Gust's was the scene of a joyous party for the Phi Sigma Sigmas on Friday. The girls were combining fun with good deeds, for the proceeds will go to their national philanthropy project. Norman Kowalsky, Barry Nash, and Joe Luber were helping members Arlene Glugatch, Suzanne Weinstein, and Rosalie Ackerman celebrate. Janie Berger and Harry Wolpuff, recently engaged, and Pat Kerman and date Jerry were happily watching the pledges go through some of their song and dance routines. President Estelle Luber proudly clutched the silver cup.

The KD punch bowl could tell some wild tales of its pledge formal Saturday night at the Kenwood Country Club, but it was watched too closely by mother Sue Flocken and fiancé Gordon Wightman.

Mary McFoster was seen with SAE Knitting John, while pledge prexy Alice Handwork celebrated her 18th birthday with SPE Chuck Putney. Pretty Margie Gray was with PIKA Phil Dubina and Anne Garfield with Delt Bill Keys. Bonnie Bair brought her law student Page Crawford as did Suzy Ballington, dragging Dan Brown.

Seen cutting paper dolls from assorted rugs adorning the floor were Liz Moore and Rick Weller. Seen just cutting were Scissors Hamilton and SPE pledge prexy Dan Johnson. Cutting in were SPE Ray Black and Peg Whalen. Cutting up was your own Hester Heale.

The Kappa Kappa Gamma pledges made their debut at the Arlington Towers' Oak Terrace Room following a cocktail party at the house of Evie Weedon. The pledges and their escorts presented at this gala affair were: Anh Hoska and Bill Carter, Jill Warren and Dick Krasfur, Sue Kneadle and Bill Cooper, Kay Covington and Chuck Thomas, Marie Seltzer and Larry Daidy, Dee Renshaw and Otham Gilbert, Phyllis Parziale and Guy Reeve, Mary Rita Fortuna and Jim Whitehead, Julie Martin and Ed Nelson, Ann Morbacker and Dick Life, Karen Spena and Bob Blocher, Sue Bronfield and Park Avery, Leslie Davis and John Mechlenberg, Natalie Warden and Glenn Cole, Marcia Montgomery and Floyd Johnston, Pat Oakly and Mike Adams, Barbara Pearsall and Fred Dietrich. Kappa colors changed from blue and blue to black and blue when the pledges performed their Goat Show skit during intermission (formals et al). The cave girls headed for a slumber party at the house of Sue Bromfield following the pledge formal. The slumber party almost panicked when the hostess failed to show up, but all were relieved when she finally made her appearance at 5 am. All concurred that this night was truly "A Night to Remember."

Fun was had by all at the ADPI Pledge Formal at the DuPont Plaza Hotel. At the pre-dance cocktail party, TKE Dave Suduth was crowned ADPI King of Diamonds by prexy Annie Haug. His fiancée, Carole Scruggs, kept Charlie Mays company. Anne Wickham and Holmes Branson tried to monopolize the punch bowl but Helen Griggs and Phi Sig Griff Jones gave them a fight for their money. Jeannie Farley, SPE, Ed McCullough, Lynda Conrad and Pike Bob Correns all stuffed themselves with chips and dip. Speaking of dip, Terry Shelton and Phi Sig Don Coble were constantly dipping in the punch.

At the dance Barbara Brent and Phi Sig Bill Whitman pled Arthur and Kathryn while pledge class prexy Elaine Cronin and Jim Suduth gaped in disbelief. Joan Howarth, Bud Mulcock, Bette Pearson and Phil Hunter weren't exactly "feeling any pain" at the dance. Newly-engaged Jan Crevett and Phi Sig Fred Hink chatted with Janet Green and John Donoghue, but don't remember now what they were, chatting about.

At the Presidential Arms the TEPs held their annual Sweetheart Dance. The evening began with a buffet cocktail hour, followed by a dinner after which Marty Bertman crowned Miss Sonya Gordon. After being presented with a bouquet of roses and the sweetheart trophy, Miss Gordon with her escort Joel Taubin had the first fling around the floor. In due time all joined in and danced the cha-cha. Enjoying the whole affair was your own Hester Heale. (Maybe someone will make Hester a sweetheart. Well, she'll go to every dance until the blessed event occurs, hoping, wishing, longing . . . )

The next day, Sunday, for those who don't remember, the Phi Sigma Deltas and the AEPHs had a mixer. Auntie was invited, of course. Preceding was an informative discussion by the members of Phi Sigma Delta pertaining to the use and misuse of Good Manners. At 2 the boys met the girls at the place near Leo's and a good blast was held. The theme was indeed Stripes and Plaids. Seen stripping and plodding were such notables as AEPH prexy 'Bubbles' Ginberg and vivacious Sue Scher. Plodding right behind those stripping were all the Phi Sigma Deltas. The chorus of lovelies included that little Boston bombshell, Brenda Cohen and that Silver Spring cutie, Linda Nusbaum.

Sigma Chi announces the initiation of Paul Bowden, Chuck Hornfeck, Rich Hornfeck, and Stanley Remsburg. Congratulations to Brother Bill Ellis and ZTA pledge Mary Ellen Pryde, who were pinned following the Friday night performance.

This is the B-52. Advanced as it may be, this airplane has one thing in common with the first war-galleys of ancient Egypt...and with the air and space vehicles of the future. Someone must chart its course. Someone must navigate it.

For certain young men this presents a career of real executive opportunity. Here, perhaps you will have the chance to master a profession full of meaning, excitement and rewards...as a Navigator in the U. S. Air Force.

To qualify for Navigator training as an Aviation Cadet you must be an American citizen between 19 and 26½—single, healthy and intelligent. A high school diploma is required, but some college is highly desirable. Successful completion of the training program leads to a commission as a Second Lieutenant...and your Navigator wings.

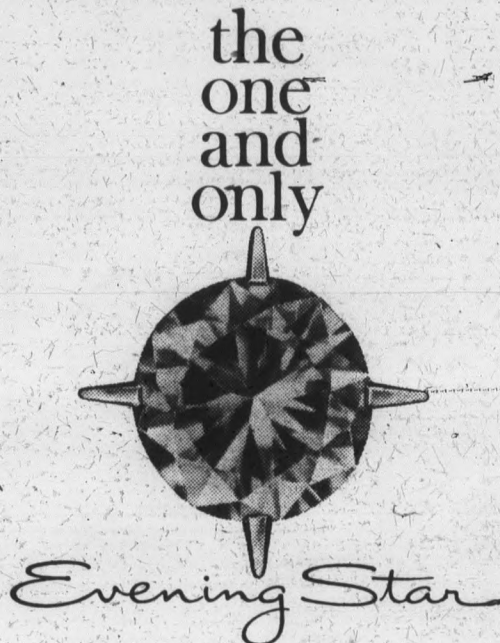

If you think you have what it takes to measure up to the Aviation Cadet Program for Navigator training, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Or clip and mail this coupon.

Sophomore Laden Marylanders Prove 'Stronger Than Last Year'

by Norman Cohen

THE SOPHOMORE-laden Maryland basketball squad should be the cause of much worry out at College Park but Terp Coach Bud Millikan doesn't subscribe to this viewpoint.

"We'll have a better team than we had last year," Millikan said before the season at the annual hoop Tap-off Luncheon. "We are much better on defense. We're going to surprise a lot of people on our schedule."

And the record thus far seems to be bearing out Millikan's statement. The Terps carry a 2-0 record into tonight's encounter with the Colonials at Cole Field House. In their opener, Maryland polished off a highly-touted Penn State quintet, 64-47. On Saturday, the Terps trimmed Virginia, 57-52.

Against Penn State, the Terps built a 26-21 halftime margin into a commanding 42-33 advantage and coasted the rest of the way to victory.

Sophomores

Maryland unveiled two of the heralded group of sophomores against the Lions, Bill Stasiulatis and Bob Elcher, and they performed with distinction. Stasiulatis led the scoring with 19 markers and Elcher was a valuable asset off the boards and on defense.

The veterans on the starting five contributed greatly to the runaway victory. Junior Bruce Kelleher, labeled by Millikan as "the best floor leader Maryland has had in years," plunked in 12 points and was a steady influence for the inexperienced Terps.

Bob Wilson, a 6-foot-9 senior hook-shot specialist, pumped in 14 points and pulled down 18 rebounds. Senior Bruce McDonald also tallied 14 for the victors.

Deliberate Offense

In a typical example of a deliberate, slow moving Maryland ballgame, the Terps broke a 46-46 tie to edge Virginia, 57-52. Kelleher once again played the role of field general, and his late-minute basket put the Terrapins ahead for keeps. Pinpoint accuracy from the free-throw line enabled the Terps to maintain their margin.

Elcher accounted for 15 Maryland points, Kelleher 13, and Mc-Donald scored 15. McDonald was high in rebounds, again with 11.

The usually resourceful Maryland defense, which has held opponents to an average of 49.5 points per game in the first two encounters, ran into a problem they couldn't solve in Cavalier Tony LaQuinto. LaQuinto hit for 18 points in the first half to keep Virginia in the ballgame. He put on a one-man show in the opening minutes of the second half to pull the Cavaliers into a 33-33 deadlock and finished the game with 32 points.

Replace Graduates

Sophomores Stasiulatis, Elcher, Jerry Greenspan and George Hodor are being counted upon to fill the places vacated by the graduated Al Bunge, Jerry Bechtle and Charlie McNeil, from the Maryland team which posted a 15-8 mark, including two thrilling victories over the Colonials.

Stasiulatis and Elcher have already proved themselves under fire. Greenspan, possibly the best of the rookies, has been hobbled by a sprained ankle and hasn't seen action yet. He is a 6-foot-6 husky forward who achieved All-State New Jersey selection in high school.

Paul Jelus, one of the returning veterans, saw only limited action against Virginia and missed the opener because of a sprained ankle. He will be counted on for his accurate shooting touch and his experience.

Yankees Sign Charlie Payne For 'Five Figure' Contract

by Ron Goldwyn

The "baseball bug" bit one of the University's most promising athletes last week. The "wound," far from fatal, nevertheless eliminates sophomore Charlie Payne from intercollegiate sports.

Charlie, a hometown product living in Hyattsville, Md., signed a New York Yankee baseball contract last Monday, for an undisclosed bonus which Charlie admits is "in five figures."

Charlie always wanted to play for the Yankees, and the feeling has been mutual ever since Bomber scout Bucky Busher watched him blaze his fast ball past 17 High Point High School batters during the spring of 1959. Charlie was in the process of pitching Northwestern High to the Maryland Bi-County League title.

Player Of The Year

That season, he compiled a 9-0 record, and earned the Baseball Player of the Year award from the Washington Daily News.

Since then, he has pitched for Hyattsville American Legion Post's entry in the Clark Griffith Memorial 19-and-under sandlot league and for men's sandlot teams in the Industrial and Old Dominion Leagues. In the past two years, he rolled to a 30-5 record overall.

Charlie was a reserve on coach Bill Reinhart's cagers before signing with the Yankees. His professional contract makes him ineligible for all intercollegiate athletics.

However, the 195-pound Payne hopes, to continue at the University for one semester a year. He is majoring in physical education.

It may surprise some that Charlie, after averaging 12 points per game for the Frosh last year, didn't delay his signing until the end of the basketball season. But Payne, who has been playing in organized baseball leagues since age seven explains it simply. "When the cold weather comes, I get that baseball bug."

Eastern League

After years of early spring indoor workouts at high school, Charlie is looking forward to joining Binghamton, N. Y., a Class A Eastern League club, at its sunny Lake Wales, Fla., training camp in early March.

Although Charlie was pursued by "seven or eight" major league clubs, he rejected all offers because "I wanted to get started in school." But then the Yankees and the cold weather changed his mind.

Honors

Caracciolo topped Navy's Joe Matalavage. Steven Bartnik, Bill Hardy, Lou DeSimone and Tony Fredicine were all chosen for honorable mention.

Wasiliewski, Barbieri, Caracciolo and Hardy all received honorable mention in the Southern Conference ratings.

The Associated Press named Guida to their All Southern Conference team and honorable mention All American.

Five Colonial gridders played in the Gem Bowl for graduating seniors. Nick Anzelmi, Charlie Packan, Wasiliewski, Gene Posati and Barbieri all received invitations. Anzelmi hauled in two touchdown passes and Packan threw for another TD as the East edged the West, 27-26.

Barbieri has turned down an invitation to play in the annual Copper Bowl game in Phoenix, Arizona, to play in the North-South Shrine game in Miami on December 27.

"I ENGINEERED MICROWAVE TOWER LOCATIONS ON MY FIRST ASSIGNMENT"

When Bill Pigott knocked on the door of Pacific Telephone, he had two big assets. One was an electrical engineering degree from Seattle University. The other was a craving to jump right into vital engineering problems.

It was not long before Bill was exploring Washington's rugged Cascade Range in a helicopter to find sites for microwave relay towers—part of a multimillion dollar telephone construction job. Today, it's considerable satisfaction to him to see these towers spanning the mountains, knowing that his planning helped put them there.

Other important assignments followed: engineering maritime radio systems, SAGE systems—figuring engineering costs for Air Force Titan missile bases.

"Our people respect a man's engineering training—you really get a chance to show what you've got on the ball," Bill says. "I was up to my neck in tough engineering problems right from the start."

If you want a job where you put your training to work from the day you hang up your hat—you'll want to visit your Placement Office for literature and additional information.

"Our number one aim is to have in all management jobs the most vital, intelligent, positive and imaginative men we can possibly find."

PiKA Smashes AEPi Unit 17-7

• PIKA'S UNBEATEN CONTINGENT romped over AEPi 17-7 in the second round of playoffs for the intramural grid-iron title. The loss eliminated AEPi from the competition, giving them the third-place position in the final standings.

The PIKA forces registered first, as Al Leonardo hauled in a 38-yard aerial from John Beaver and ran the remaining ten yards to paydirt. The extra point attempt was no good.

Later in the period, Pike added to their margin, as Carl Schultz broke through the AEPi forward wall to catch Rick Silas in his own endzone for a safety and two more Pike points.

AEPi came back in the closing minutes to narrow the gap to a single point, 8-7. Rick Silas teamed up with Larry Raskin on three consecutive passes for the seven AEPi markers. On the first, Raskin hauled in a 25-yard aerial and took off for paydirt only to be caught from behind at the 15. Silas again hit Raskin, this time in the endzone, for the TD. It was Silas to Raskin for the extra point. The score at half-time stood 8-7 in favor of PIKA.

Second Half

The Pike contingent really got rolling in the second half. It took them a while to score but they were advancing consistently. Beaver connected on a series of short passes to targets Joe Gonda, John Mechlenberg, Al Leonardo and Tom Fuller. The Pike backfield got off some long runs around end aided by the superb blocking by the forward wall of Dave Fouquet, Carl Schultz, Marion Hoar and Jim Farley.

Leonardo put Pike on the scoreboard in the third period as he skirted left end, picked up a host of blockers, and galloped 45 yards to paydirt. After rounding the end, he cut back to the center and, behind sharp blocking, waltzed over the goal-line. Once again the extra point attempt was foiled.

Field Goal

Pike closed out the scoring in the final period on a 25-yard field goal by Dave Fouquet. A pass interference penalty placed the ball on the AEPi 15. On fourth down, Pike elected to go for the field goal. The kick was partially deflected at the line by Jeff Young and Rick Silas, but not enough to knock it off the mark.

Next weekend, PIKA meets DTD in the deciding game of the round-robin playoff. Delt is hurting from the loss of quarterback Dick Brown and lineman "Bear" Massey, making Pike the decided favorite.

Buff Gridders Take Honors

• THE COLONIAL GRIDDERS continue on their winning ways but lately it has been in the honor department.

High on the list was Coach Bill Elias who was the landslide winner for Southern Conference Coach of the Year honors in a poll conducted by the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association. When informed of his selection, Elias answered: "I am most surprised. There had been a lot of talk about it but I didn't expect to get it. It's tough for a new man in a league to do it."

Andy Guida, standout left end, was picked to almost every All Southern Conference first team. Guida, who had already won honor this season with his selection as area lineman of the week by the Washington Post for his play against Air Force, was chosen by the Post to their All Area team. Pete Wasiliewski and John Caracciolo also made the first team at tackle and halfback positions.

Bob Barbieri was chosen to the second team behind Frank Visted, Navy's All American center. John Hewitt, Navy's outstanding guard, rated the nod over GW's Ron Cindrich. Cindrich was chosen to the second team. Guida beat out Vinnie Scott of Maryland for his first team position. Wasiliewski edged Tom Sankevich of Maryland, and

Buff Down Richmond 75-67, Wolfpack Rip Cagers 88-68

by Dave Segal

• ALTHOUGH THE COLONIAL cagers are picked as a threat for Southern Conference honors, the team must improve from an unimpressive season start.

The Buff split their first two encounters, winning the opener with Richmond 75-67 but dropping their next game, a 88-68 mauling by North Carolina State.

Even in victory the Colonials displayed the fault that led to their downfall at N.C. State.

The offense was weakened by a lack of patterned play. The shots that the Buff took against Richmond, they worked for individually. There was very little screening set up for the shooters. Most play was outside the key.

Jon Feldman pumped in 21 points against the Spiders. Yet Feldman had to work hard for his shooting opportunities. He scored a few quick baskets when Richmond switched into a zone defense, leaving little Jon open for his jump shot. But when Richmond used a man-to-man defense, Feldman was played very tight by Dick Higgins. This made it difficult to take his patented long jump shot but also relatively easy to drive his man in and get clear for a shot closer in. But the Colonials never set up for him.

Markowitz Underneath

Dick Markowitz tallied 17 but most of his scores were on follows from underneath the basket. Very rarely did Markowitz get a pass in the pivot where he could employ his fakes to get free for a short jump shot as he did last season. Markowitz was terrific off the boards, with 21 rebounds.

Gar Schweickhardt teamed up with Markowitz to sweep the boards clean in the first half until he hurt his ankle. Gar managed to tally eight points and pull down 11 rebounds but his ankle visibly hurt him and cut down his effectiveness.

Soph Bill Norton made his varsity debut an impressive one, accounting for 16 points. At one point in the ballgame, with Feldman on the bench for a few minutes rest, Norton hit for two quick baskets and a foul shot to keep the Colonials in business. Bill Ingram tallied eight points and pulled down 16 rebounds.

The Colonials brought a slim one-point 37-36 lead to the dressing room with them at halftime, as the lead changed hands eight times in the opening twenty minutes. The Buff were out-rebounding the Spiders but losing the ball on fast breaks. The Richmond backcourt of Mike Higgins and Tom Booker accounted for 20 of the Spiders halftime points. Jean O'Bryan of the visitors took advantage of Markowitz's three fouls to score ten points.

Take Charge

The Colonials finally began to take charge midway through the second period. Dick Wickline slipped through the Richmond defense on a fast break to give the Colonials a 59-58 lead which they never relinquished. The Buff went on a ten-point tear, increasing their margin to ten points, 70-60. The Spiders closed the gap to 71-67 but there wasn't enough time left for a serious threat.

The difference in the second half was defense. Bill Norton held Booker scoreless while he guarded him in the second half. Then the Colonials switched into a 1-3-1 zone defense which stifled the Spiders. The Spiders also switched into a zone in the second half and it gave the Buff opportunity to work free for jump shots.

There seemed to be a lid on the GW basket on Saturday. The Colonials must have taken it with them down to Raleigh. The Buff succumbed to form as they dropped their eighteenth consecutive defeat, 88-68, to Everett Case's teams.

Never Headed

The Wolfpack took charge from the opening minutes of the game, racing off to an 11-4 lead in the opening minutes. The Wolfpack never headed in the game displayed a well-disciplined offense, setting up three-man screens at times for short set and jump shots. Stan Nierowski paced the winners with 20 points. Feldman had 18 for the Colonials.

Markowitz and Ingram were the high rebounders with 13. Ralph Kunze pumped in 13 points for the Colonials and Norton ten and Ingram 10 in the losing effort. But the shooting percentages were bad. The Colonials were cold, hitting 27 of 77 attempts from the floor. The Wolfpack didn't sport an impressive percentage either but their 34 of 86 was the difference. Those nine extra shots were turned into seven extra baskets. The Wolfpack also had the advantage on the foul line hitting 20 of 28 to 14 of 20 for the Buff.

Bob DiStefano, a 6-foot-5 center, tallied 15 for the victors and Jon Speaks, a 6-foot guard, hit for 14. Anton Muehlbauer, another of the Wolfpack's guards accounted for nine points and nine assists. The entire Wolfpack team had 38 assists to only nine for the Buff. The Colonials amassed 20 personal fouls to 14 incurred by N. C. State.
